

RangeMaster Transmitters, Inc. Model AM1000

A professional quality radio station for your church! License free, FCC certified and fully legal to operate.

The Rangemaster is a long range AM band transmitter designed to cover a small town with 1-2 miles of radius range with broadcast quality sound.

The church radio station can be used for new visitor information, people can find out about you by just listening in to their radios. Visitor information, on Sunday morning tell the new visitor where to park, where to drop the kids off, which Sunday school classes are available, times of classes. Make their first visit much more pleasant. You can reach out to shut-ins in the area by broadcasting the pastors sermon on Sunday at a set time. Or let the kids take over the station and have fun with it! If the church has a school the radio station is great practice for a communications class, broadcast announcements to keep parents informed when they are waiting in line to pick the kids up.

Installing the RangeMaster is as easy as putting up an television antenna. You pick one of the many mast mounts available from Radio Shack, mount your mast, and then mount the transmitter to the mast using the bracket we provide. Above we used a tripod mount, look in the bottom picture for the circle to see the transmitter. Then run a ground wire from the transmitter to a grounding rod in the ground or other suitable ground. Then install the wire that connects the audio and power to your studio. We can help in the installation, or help find a technical person in your area.
